Safer driving is everyone's business

As part of its commitment to promoting driver vigilance and improved safety on Territory roads, Energy Resources of Australia has today launched the ERA Road Safety DVD aimed at highlighting safer driving practices on the Stuart and Arnhem highways.

ERA employees, contractors, visitors and their families regularly commute via light vehicles between ERA's Ranger mine at Jabiru and Darwin. The company produced the DVD to help ensure greater awareness of potential hazards while driving.

ERA encourages other commercial and private users of the Arnhem highway to view this DVD via the following link to ERA's website; <http://www.energyres.com.au/whatwedo/2728.asp>

Chief Executive Rob Atkinson said the company has a strong emphasis on road safety not only because it represents the biggest risk of its people coming to harm while working for ERA, but also because improved vigilance on the roads helps to ensure our employees take home with them to benefit their families and friends.

"We are committed to doing all we can to protect our people and other road users from getting hurt," Mr Atkinson said.

"ERA has a proactive Light Vehicle Safety Standards Committee which works to promote road safety across the business, and ERA is also a key member of external working groups to work to enhance safer driving practices among commercial users of the Arnhem highway.

"We also have a light vehicle policy which sets out stringent guidelines for conduct while driving on company business."

Businesses or individuals who would like to obtain a hard copy of this DVD should contact Shannon McRae on 0457 532 270.
